

SEMI-WEEKLY INTERIOR JOURNAL.

VOL. XX.

STANFORD, KY., FRIDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1892.

NO. 68

DANVILLE.

—Miss Pattie Triplett visited friends in Stanford this week.

—C. H. Woods has been appointed a justice of the peace in the place of T. P. Young deceased.

—Fred Bishop has rented from his father, Josiah Bishop, his farm near Westerville, containing 8½ acres, for next year for $325.

—Mr. David Bell, of Louisville, a native of Danville, is in town on a visit to old friends. Dr. J. M. Meyer is visiting his son, Dr. Joe Meyer, at Honey Grove, Tex.

—The meeting at the Christian church at Kingsville, conducted by Revs. J. L. Allen, of Danville, and R. D. Hardin, of Somerset, has closed with 16 conversions.

—Charley Durham, colored, for raising a disturbance at the colored Presbyterian church, Saturday night, was sent to the work-house 22 days from the record's court, Tuesday morning.

—Dr. James Heddle delivered his lecture, "The Master Passion," to a good audience at the Opera House Wednesday night. Dr. Heddle is a favorite in Danville, having been here before.

—A movement is on foot, which it is thought may be successful, looking to the removal of the Brodhead tobacco factory to Danville. If the change is made some 75 or 80 hands can find employment.

—Miss Maggie Cecil, of this county, and Mr. Jerry Kincaid, of Fayette county, were married Wednesday morning at the home of Mr. Thomas Cox, this county. Mr. Kincaid was formerly a citizen of this place.

—Mrs. Kate Giovannoli died Thursday morning at 3 o'clock, after a long illness. She was an excellent woman and left many friends, who deeply sympathize with her surviving children, all of whom are grown.

—Miss Myrtle A. Campbell and Mr. Larkin Downey were married in the clerk's office Thursday morning by Rev. J. W. Lynch, of the Baptist church. The principals belong near Faulconer's Station, this county.

—Jim Wilson, who sprinkles the streets of Danville, is the best judge of tolu in the United States. It is no use to try to fool him with inferior brands. He can tell a genuine article from imitation at a glance.

—Mrs. Mary Dudley, for a number of years matron of the D. & D. Institute, and Col. Burnam, a wealthy citizen of Waco, Texas, and who also has a hand some estate in Tennessee, will be married here next Wednesday.

—It has been rumored for several days that a student of the Theological Seminary had concluded to abandon his past religious beliefs and become an evangelist, holding the views of Rev. George O. Barnes. Investigation proves that while there is something in the rumor, the young man has not definitely settled on the course indicated.

—Drs. Monfort and Kincaid were driving up Main street Tuesday morning when their horse balked and would not go at all, either by persuasion or per application of the whip. Then Ike Adler, who happened to pass by, took up a handful of limestone dust from the street and put it in the horse's mouth. The medicine acted at once and the noble steed moved on as though that was what he wanted to do all the time.

—Sheriff Westerfield, of Clay county, with powers of attorney from good bondsmen, came and signed George Woods' bond Tuesday morning, when the latter was released from jail and departed at once for his home in Clay, in company with the sheriff. Wood it will be remembered was jointly indicted with Pomp Bates for killing George Wells, at Junction City. Pomp, it will also be remembered, died in jail about a week ago.

—Mr. H. E. Samuel, having about wound up his business here, has gone to Louisville where his two sons, Dr. F. W. Samuel and Mr. J. J. Samuel reside. Mr. Samuel came to Danville early in 1861 from Arkansas and soon afterward bought the drug business of Capt. A. S. McGroarty, which he successfully conducted until last December, when he sold out to Capt. E. W. Lillard, of Lancaster. His wife, who died about two years ago, was Miss Mary T. Warren, a sister of Hon. R. C. Warren, of Stanford.

No SUNSET FOR FIVE DAYS.—At the head of the Gulf of Bothnia there is a mountain on the summit of which the sun shines perpetually during the five days of June 19, 20, 21, 22 and 23. Every six hours during this season of continual sunshine a steamer leaves Stockholm crowded with visitors anxious to witness the phenomenon. At the same place during winter the sun disappears and is not seen for weeks; then it comes in sight again for 10, 15 or 20 minutes, gradually lengthening its stay until finally it stays in sight continuously for upward of 12 hours.

Bucklin's Arnica Salve.

The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and skin eruptions and positively cures piles, or no money required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by A. R. Penny, Stanford, Ky.

LANCASTER, GARRARD COUNTY.

—The K. C. pay car passed up the road Tuesday.

—Judge John W. Hughes will speak at Lancaster next Monday, county court day.

—Next Monday is county court day and a large crowd is expected to be in town.

—Prof. Allie has been here for a few days getting up a class in telegraphy. He is a cornet player and has been rendering valuable assistance to the band. He can get that old circus tent out of an E flat that will get a crowd anywhere.

—Capt. W. S. Miller, of Knoxville, has been here for several days looking after the damage done his hotel building by the recent livery stable fire. Capt. Miller is a public-spirited citizen and his many friends would be glad to have him return to his old home.

—The large barn of Col. B. F. Robinson, in lower Garrard, was destroyed by fire about 4 o'clock Wednesday morning. The barn contained a lot of farming implements, hay, corn and a good saddle horse, which were consumed. It is thought that it was set on fire by tramps.

—Mr. Will Hutchings, of Boyle, and Miss Lottie Borders, a niece of Mrs. C. C. Stormes, eloped to Cincinnati Wednesday night, where they will be married this Thursday morning. They will remain in the city for several days, when they will return to his home near Danville.

—Mrs. Belle Burdett, of Florida, is visiting friends here this week. Mr. Logan Denny, of Danville, and Miss Amelia Pearson, of Harrodsburg, were here Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. H. A. B. Marksby have returned from Perryville. Mr. Will Elkin left Tuesday for Atlanta. Mrs. Clara Beazley has returned from Nicholasville. Miss Minnie Rucker, of Paint Lick, is visiting Miss Fannie Shugars. Miss Ellen Owsley has returned from a visit to Danville. Mrs. Clayton Anderson has returned from a visit to her daughter, Mrs. John Baughman, at Richmond. Rev. J. R. Tercey is attending the Masonic Grand Lodge at Louisville, this week. Mr. Will Marrs has gone on his regular trip through the South for a Cincinnati boot and shoe house. Mr. Eph Brown has accepted a position in the dry goods store of Mr. J. G. Sweeney. Miss Lizzie Simpson, of Marksby, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Uriah Simpson. Mr. Jesse Rout, of Stanford, spent Sunday here.

CURCH AFFAIRS.

—The new Baptist church at Cynthiana will be dedicated Sunday, Oct. 30th. Rev. Dr. Kerfoot, of Louisville, will preach the sermon.

—Ed. Martin Owens, of Rockcastle, will begin a protracted meeting at Mt. Moriah, to-morrow. Preaching at 11 and 7 except on Saturday, when it will be at 2 p.m.

—Orthodox Christians are being kept so busy disciplining heterodox Christians that there is nobody with leisure to go out in the highways and byways to bring in the sinners.—Louisville Times.

—The back-woods preachers, the congressional hypocrites and the Chicago bar-keepers have won a great victory.

—The World's Fair will be closed and the Chicago doggeries run wide open on Sundays.—Louisville Times.

—Writing from Paris, Rev. W. E. Arnold asks to state in this issue of the I. J. that the protracted meeting announced to begin at the Methodist church on next Sunday has been postponed on account of the inability of Rev. J. R. Deering to assist in the work at that time.

The meeting will be held in November, beginning about the 20th.

—Rev. A. J. Pike writes from Broadhead: I closed an 8 days' meeting with Freedom church, in Rockcastle county, on the 17th. It was the most prosperous and delightful meeting we have had at our church for many years. The results in additions were 31-29 confessions, 28 of which were baptized, one restored, one by letter and one approved for baptism. Bro. James McPherson came to our assistance and preached five sermons. The church was much revived and the community was deeply stirred and we all feel that a permanent impulse has been given to the cause of truth and consecrated Christian living.

The Holy Spirit used the messages of truth to convince men and women of sin.

We feel that we have great reason to thank God for his goodness and the salvation of souls.

Freedom is my home church and I have been preaching there as pastor for eight years and on last Saturday they elected me unanimously for the next year.

During the last year we have erected us a new house of worship, so we pray God's blessings upon our people during the year to come.

—There were 400 cattle on the Georgetown market Monday and were mostly sold, feeders bringing 2.85 to 3¢; yearlings 2½ to 3.10.

—Englewood, a suburb of Chicago, suffered a $100,000 fire. A woman was killed by jumping from a third-story to escape the flames and a man's body was found roasted in the ruins.

LONDON, LAUREL COUNTY.

—Everything is dry here and water is awfully scarce.

—Col. Alvah Pullins is here from Paint Lick, getting rid of a few yarns he learned since his last visit.

—Dave Chumley, living between Pittsburg and East Bernstadt, had his house burned up Saturday night.

—Columbus day will be celebrated at every school house in Laurel county next Friday, if all arrangements are carried out.

—Common pleas court adjourned Saturday until Tuesday, the 25th, at the request of a majority of the lawyers, who had other business to attend to this week.

—J. D. Pittman has bought out the laundry business of W. H. Jackson & Co., and took possession Saturday. Dan is an enterprising young man and deserves the success he seems to have.

—There was a most delightful ball at U. S. Marshal Riley's Hotel last Tuesday night and all say that it was the most delightful event of the kind given here for a long while.

—Hon. J. R. Hindman, our candidate for Congress, was here Monday and left for Manchester, where he had an appointment for Tuesday. He will fill a list of appointments through all the upper counties before returning and will stop at Pittsburg, this county, Tuesday night, Oct. 25.

—Messrs. P. F. Stillings, C. R. Brock, R. R. Bowling and Dave Jackson have tendered their time and services in the interest of the democratic party between now and the election, in the county of Laurel, and the following appointments have been made for them: Bernstadt colony Saturday, Oct. 22; Bush's Store, Monday, Oct. 24; Pittsburg Tuesday night, 25, will be filled by the candidate for Congress, J. R. Hindman. East Bernstadt, Wednesday night, 26; Hazel Patch, Friday, 28; London, Saturday, 29; Camp Ground, Monday, 31; McWhorter, Friday, Nov. 4.

LIBERTY, CASEY COUNTY.

—Miss Bertha Elliott's school has closed.

—County candidates are hustling around.

—George E. Stone has gone to Frankfort on professional business.

—License was issued on the 15th to Wm. Ross to marry Miss Mary M. Lynn.

—The booths and ballot boxes for Casey county voting purposes have been received.

—The fall term of the Casey Quarterly Court convened on Monday, but nothing of importance on, hands. The court of claims meets on next Monday.

—Mrs. Rhoda Gibbons, who was in her 90th year, died at the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. John Moore, near this place, on last Thursday evening, and was buried at this place Friday evening, a large number of relatives and friends following the remains to the grave. Mrs. Gibbons was a good old woman and was loved and respected by everybody. She survived her husband, Mr. George B. Gibbons, about seven years. For 41 years she was a faithful member of the Baptist church. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. N. C. Hamlin. Three sons and one daughter survive her. Her daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Moore, lives near this place. Two of her sons, George A. and William Gibbons, live in Knoxville, Tenn.; James Gibbons resides in Illinois. All are of the highest respectability.

—MT. VERNON, ROCKCASTLE COUNTY.

—Gov. J. B. McCrory will speak here Monday, Oct. 24th and Gov. Buckner Wednesday, 26th.

A WOMAN'S POLITICS.—She (over the breakfast table)—What's the news?

He—Well, Stevenson is nominated. She—Why I thought Cleveland is nominated.

He—Well, so he is, my dear; but Stevenson is for vice president, you know.

She—I thought Reid was for vice president.

He—Yes, but Reid is a republican, and there must be a democratic nominee, too.

She—Oh, yes; well, I'm a democrat.

He—Then you'll vote for Cleveland and Stevenson.

She—No, I won't. I don't know anything about Stevenson. I'll vote for Cleveland and Reid.—New York Advertiser.

A lady once said to John Wesley: "If you knew that you would die at 12 o'clock to-morrow night, how would you spend the intervening time?" "Why," was his answer, "just as I intend to spend it. I should preach to-night at Gloucester and again to-morrow morning. After that I would ride to Tewkesbury, preach in the afternoon and meet the society in the evening. I should then repair to friend Martin's house, as he expects to entertain me; converse, pray with the family, retire to my room at 10 o'clock, commend myself to my Heavenly Father, lie down to sleep and awake in glory."

MATRIMONIAL MATTERS.

—R. F. Dunaway and Miss Minerva Routen were married Wednesday at Mr. J. G. Lynn's.

—Walter Lane, a love-sick youth of Crawfordville, Ind., killed himself because his sweetheart went riding with another fellow.

—J. C. Spratt, a widower of 34, and Miss Mary J. Ballard, were married at Elder J. G. Livingston's Wednesday by that gentleman.

—H. B. Boone, aged 46 and a widower, and Miss Eva Turnbull were united heart and hand at the bride's father's, Mr. Wm. Turnbull, Tuesday.

—Miss Lottie Borders, of Garrard, and Mr. W. C. Hutchings, of Danville, accompanied by Miss Allie Harlan and Utter Pope were registered at the Myers House Wednesday night. They took the train yesterday morning for Jeffersonville, were the first-wed couple were to be married yesterday.

—We have received an invitation to the marriage of Miss Addie, the lovely daughter of Mr. J. Ottenheimer, of New York City, to Mr. M. Straus, resident New York partner of the Western Bank and Shipping house of A. E. Johnson & Co., Chicago, which is to occur Nov. 15. The prospective bride will be pleasantly remembered by our young people, who hold her in high esteem.

—ESTES-EDMISTON.—At the home of the bride's father, Mr. John Edmiston, in Crab Orchard, Wednesday morning, Dr. E. M. Estes, of McKinney, and Miss Lida Edmiston were united in marriage by Rev. R. B. Mahony. There were no attendants and after an elegant repast had been served and enjoyed, the couple left for a visit to Louisville and other points. The bride is both handsome and attractive and the groom, who is a good physician and a clever gentleman, is to be congratulated on winning her. May their honeymoon last as long as their lives.

—A New York paper announces the marriage of Sidney Ottenheimer, son of Mr. J. Ottenheimer, to Miss Helen J. Lederman, of that city, after which they left for an extensive bridal tour of the West. There was a double wedding, a sister of the bride, Miss Sarah Lederman, being married at the same time to Mr. B. F. Kohler. The brides are sisters of the Lederman Bros., prominent tobacconists. The handsome residence was beautified by a tasteful display of flowers and rare plants. Seductive music was furnished by an excellent orchestra, and dancing was indulged in till the wee hours. Delmonico furnished the collation.

—Mack Eubanks and Miss Mary, the pretty daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hubble, of the Hubble vicinity, were married Wednesday at high noon at the bride's home by Elder J. Q. Montgomery. For a long time this happy pair had known and loved each other and it seemed from their first courtship that in the eternal fitness of things they should become husband and wife. The bride is a lady of culture and accomplishments and the groom is young man of good morals and splendid business qualifications. After the ceremony the newly-made couple drove to Danville, where they took the train for Rochester, Ill., to visit their sister.

—Mr. B. H. Danks and Miss Alpha Tyree were married in the Gibson House parlor, Cincinnati, Tuesday, at high noon, Rev. Johnson Myers, of that city, officiating. The couple left here Tuesday morning at 3:15, accompanied by Mr. J. S. Wells, who acted as "best man" on the occasion. There was no opposition on the part of the bride's mother, but the novelty of the thing caused them to desire to elope. The love affair between the happy pair began several years ago when Mr. Danks was in the employ of Mr. W. B. McRoberts. Mr. Danks knew not how strong his love was and determined to go to Philadelphia. He did so, but the thought of his Kentucky sweetheart haunted him, and after a year's sojourn he came back to his first love and bought out Mr. McRoberts' jewelry business, which he is now conducting and which he has greatly increased. Mr. Danks is a fine young man, industrious and an adept in his line, and as the saying goes, "will always keep meat in the barrel." Miss Alpha, or rather Mrs. Danks, is an excellent young lady, vivacious and accomplished. She is the youngest daughter of Mrs. N. A. Tyree, of this place, and no young lady in this section has the pleasure of possessing a larger circle of friends. Their lives have been one perpetual ray of sunshine, undisturbed by even the smallest semblance of a cloud, is the wish of their friend, the INTERIOR JOURNAL, which showers its blessings upon them. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Danks, accompanied by Mr. Wells, drove over the city and on the next day were elegantly dined by Mr. and Mrs. Gebhardt, friends of the groom. On Wednesday evening the newly made pair left for Chicago and other points, where they will remain for several days, after which they will return to Stanford, where they will be greeted and congratulated by their legion of friends.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

For President,
GROVER CLEVELAND.

For Vice-President,
ADLAIR E. STEVENSON.

For Congress,
JAMES B. MCCREARY.

For Circuit Judge,
MICAH C. SAUFLEY.

For Commonwealth's Attorney,
JOHN SAM OWSLEY, JR.

Beyond peradventure one of the finest political addresses ever made to the people of Central Kentucky was that delivered in the Court-House at Stanford on last Tuesday by the Hon. Boyd Winchester. As a philosophical dissertation upon the nature and object of civil government, it could not easily be excelled.

The exceeding clearness with which he stated the difference between the Hamiltonian and the Jeffersonian views of government, the inexorable necessity for two, and only two, political parties, founded upon and growing out of these two views, antagonistic and uncompromising, was admirable and not the least instructive feature of the address. Hamilton was strongly wedded to imperial power. He endeavored to impress his interpretation of the constitution upon the country and founded the old federal party which taught the doctrine of consolidation and centralized power. The republican party of to-day, in its advocacy of a protective tariff and the force bill, only follows the teaching of its progenitor. Jefferson taught that sovereignty could exist alone in its source, the States, and that where sovereignty abided there was liberty; that the Union was a Union of individuals and those individuals were the States—States united but not consolidated; that paternalism in government is but another name for imperialism, and that imperialism in a Republic is not only a paradox, but is of necessity destructive of free institutions.

Mr. Winchester was equally felicitous in his demonstration of the impolicy of protection and in his proof that the wages of labor are never increased by protective enactments. A tariff for revenue only meant simply taxation for the needs of government, and not to pamper a favorite of the government. Free trade was perfectly consistent with a tariff for revenue. Free trade does not mean a destruction wholly of custom duties, but means only such a commercial intercourse as gives the maximum of facilities for reciprocal exchange, and in the least degree attempts to make a fiscal system the means of stimulating domestic industries by protective enactment. We cannot undertake even a synopsis of this excellent speech. To say that it was scholarly, polished and statesmanlike is not going beyond the measure of praise it deserves. He who thinks that the people are not pleased when they are occasionally lifted by a public speaker above the common level is egregiously mistaken.

There will be no president or ex-president at the Chicago celebration. Owing to the illness of his wife President Harrison has delegated Vice-President Morton to represent him and with his accustomed regard for the proprieties, Mr. Cleveland has declined to attend, as he is unwilling "to take political advantage of the opportunity in the said sickness that keeps President Harrison away from Chicago."

The U. S. Supreme Court has affirmed the judgment of the Michigan court upholding the constitutionality of the law providing for the election of presidential electors by congressional districts. This makes the democrats pretty certain of six votes from that State, which has always cast its vote solidly for republican electors. Everything seems to be going our way this time.

conversation with Hon. Boyd Winchester, he expressed himself as perfectly satisfied with the political outlook. He says this is a campaign of argument, with the argument largely in our favor as witness the accession of so many noted republicans to the ranks of democracy. It is in the air that Cleveland and Stevenson will be elected.

The republicans are claiming West Virginia again with their usual pretended confidence, but the democratic leaders will show them that they have reckoned without their host. They say the State is safely democratic, but they will relax no effort and are preparing to make some startling disclosures of rascally republican schemes in a few days.

The Russellville Ledger is now edited by Thomas A. Frazer and is under the management of S. W. Linebaugh. It is pretty hard to step into Walter Emerson's shoes and fill them, but Bro. Frazer seems to be as much equal to the occasion as the next man.

In view of Auditor Norman's refusal to permit the payment of the World's Fair appropriation, the Louisville Times, with its accustomed enterprise, has started a private subscription list to raise the amount. It heads the list with $500 and the Courier-Journal subscribes the same sum. The importance of the State being properly represented at the fair can not be overestimated, and in order to do it the money must be available at once. There is no doubt that the appropriation will finally be paid when the subscriptions will be returned. Everybody willing to aid in the great enterprise is requested to communicate with the Times at once.

Supt. CHARLES was fined $100 and sentenced to jail for 30 days for drawing a pistol on J. B. Treacy, at Lexington, who was also fined $50 for assault. The latter paid his money down, but the other man of course took an appeal. By the way we have not heard that the county judge has been fined and jailed for drawing a pistol on Editor Roberts. In this free country there should be no privileged class. A judge who violates the law should suffer for it worse than a man who is not supposed to be so well posted on its penalties.

Editor D. E. CALDWELL, after a long illness of liver trouble, died at Lexington, Tuesday. He had been in the newspaper business the greater part of his life of half a century and was very successful in it. He came to Lexington from Georgia and bought the Transcript several years ago, but sold it in August, when his physician said he never would be able to attend to it again. He leaves a wife and one daughter, who have the sincere sympathy of the members of the newspaper fraternity.

Mrs. LEASE, Gen. Weaver's running mate, solemnly asserts that she has not been bribed by the republicans to give up the cause of the people's party, but will stick to it to the bitter end. The election of either Cleveland or Harrison, she would regard as a public calamity. One of them is sure to be elected, however, and Mrs. Lease's efforts to prevent it will hardly reach to the height of the old woman's performance with the ocean.

All the cities will celebrate Columbus day to-day, but Chicago is the point to which general interest is directed. Most of the cabinet officers and many distinguished men are there, while the city is full of common, every day people. The buildings will be dedicated to-day, when our own Henry Watterson will say something worth listening to.

Lt. Gov. ALFORD is acting governor for the first time, Gov. Brown having gone to Chicago. It is said that a number of conspirators are trying to get certain bills through and have him approve them in the governor's absence, but it is not likely he will be caught in such a trap.

The house to house plan of holding a primary election was a signal failure in Louisville. There are more charges of fraud than could be possible under the old system.

NEWSY NOTES.

Mitchell, the rugulist, will fight Cobbett in this country during the month of May.

The new bonds issued by Tennessee are hard to dispose of, owing to the late mining troubles.

The Q. & C. will drop the United States Express after Jan. 1 and be served by the Southern.

Harry Stevens, a well-known Lexington barber, has skipped, leaving his wife and many unpaid bills.

Manager Chapman, of the Louisville base ball club, realized $900 out of the benefit game given him.

At Malden, Mass., James Keating, a lineman, while at work on a pole was instantly killed by the electric current passing through his body.

An organized gang of kidnapers in Austrian Galicia has been supplying Turkish harem with girls. The Austrian Embassy has released 60.

New York and Chicago are now connected by telephone and conversations are distinctly heard over the line, which is the longest in the world.

The Vermont Legislature elected Senator Redfield Proctor to fill the unexpired term of Senator Edmunds and for the full term beginning next March.

Whitelaw Reid has issued his letter of acceptance. It is a lengthy epistle filled with attempts to belittle the Force bill issue and praises of protective tariff.

The only regret Septimus Hamilton, an aged Harrison county farmer had in dying was that he would be deprived of the blessed privilege of voting for Cleveland and Stevenson will be elected.

Robert Oberneuer, the well-known Newport thief, became involved in a quarrel with a couple of Canton, Ohio, toughs, at the latter place, and fatally shot both of them.

A dispatch from Middlesboro says the Watts Steel and Iron Syndicate has resumed work upon its plant. Ten bricklayers, 20 masons and 30 laborers, 60 in all, are now at work.

The Southern Land and Improvement Company, which bought the property of the Pine Mountain Company, at Pineville, has leased its land to the Central Appalachian Company. The first year's rental is $25,000 and it is to increase $5,000 per year until doubled, coming three weeks.

The marriage of Hon. Chas. Offutt, formerly speaker of the Kentucky Legislature, but now of Omaha, Nebraska, to Miss Bertha Yost, of that city, is announced.

The republican campaign fund is without limit. Robert Hall, democrat, of Rush county, Ind., was offered by a republican $10, a new suit of clothes and a valise if he would remain away from the polls.

Six thousand people saw the baseball game at Cleveland between Cleveland and Boston. Neither club scored and at the 11th inning the game was called on account of darkness.

Samuel Reeder, a well-known citizen of Louisville, plunged headlong from the court-house steps and dashed his brains out. It is not known whether it was an accident or suicide.

The negro league organized in Bourbon county by the white republicans now numbers over 1,000, and add to the 450 white republicans gives them a vote of 2,350, says the Kentuckian.

The Columbian festivities at Charleston, S. C., will include a reproduction in the harbor of the assault on Ft. Sumter, in April, 1863, by the Federal fleet. The white squadron will participate.

At Leadville, Col., Herman Truman, aged 18, attempted to kill his parents, brother and sister by exploding 200 pounds of giant powder in a small mine nearby. Two houses were wrecked.

Replying to the threats of the Central Labor Union of New York, Gov. Flower says he is not to be bulldozed just before election, or at any other time, in the discharge of his official obligations.

George W. Grant and Mrs. Emma DeWitt, Louisville society people and both married, are under arrest for adultery, preferred by the landlady who innocently took them to board as brother and sister.

The steamer Bokhara, reported long overdue at Hong Kong, was found a total wreck on Sand Island, in the China Sea. Over 100 of the crew and officers including the commander, were lost, but 34 were saved.

The long enmity between Theodore Hallam and Senator Goebel, growing out of politics, culminated in a fight at Covington Tuesday, but the belligerents were parted before they had time to do each other much harm.

The large death rate in Chicago from typhoid indicates either bad water or some other dangerous condition of things. The statistics show 1,400 deaths from typhoid per million of inhabitants in Chicago, against 140 in London, 220 in New York, 335 in Boston.

A Cincinnati engraver is making stencils for use in marking ballots that will make a V instead of an X. The republicans will attempt to introduce them in some districts, thus rendering democratic ballots illegal. Election officers should be on the watch for them.

In Kansas 18 independent republican newspapers have come out squarely in favor of the democratic-alliance fusion tickets, much to the disgust of the republican leaders in that State, who failed in their effort to organize an association of republican newspapers.

President Elliott, of Harvard, refused to allow any college political club to play "Marching Through Georgia" or kindred tunes as rallies in Sanders' Theatre. He says such music is not dignified and students should conduct their meetings on a more educational basis.

Tammany nominated Thomas F. Gilroy for Mayor of New York City. Mr. Gilroy is the present Commissioner of Public Works, and his nomination is regarded as the strongest that could have been made. It is predicted that his name will add 5,000 votes to the national ticket.

Five hundred Swedes were made American citizens in a bunch at Rockford, Ill. Headed by a band and the stars and stripes, and each wearing a small American flag on his breast they marched through the streets to the court-house, where they took out their naturalization papers.

Hon. Thompson, a brakeman on the Procter Coal railroad, Jellico, fell between the cars while making a coupling and was run over and instantly killed. He leaves a large family dependent on charity. Julius Love, a miner at the Procter mines, was caught by a fall of slate and instantly killed.

The president of the Colored Democratic State League, of New York, estimates that New York will give Cleveland and Stevenson 25,000 majority. In a telegram to the negro, Tariff Reform Convention at Indianapolis he says: "Make your denunciation of the infamous force bill emphatic."

Mrs. Dr. Louis Frazee, of Richmond, has given birth to her first child after being married 18 years. She has suffered during the period with an ovarian tumor. Several months ago a prominent surgeon from Cincinnati performed ovariotomy, extracting both organs. There are but six similar cases reported in medical history.

It is said Tammany proposes to nominate Gen. Sickles for Congress in the 12th New York district, in order to quiet him and keep his tongue still in the present campaign. Democrats outside of New York hope that this is untrue. They will regret to see such a price paid to keep a harmless old blatherskite from ranting about Mr. Cleveland. Gen. Sickles can not hurt the democracy. Let him talk to his heart's content. Two years' service in Congress will be an awful price to pay for his silence for the republican ticket.

DEATH'S DOINGS.

Mr. Benjamin Givens died suddenly at his home near Mt. Salem, Tuesday, aged 82. He had gone out to give some orders to his farm hands and was taken very ill. He was carried to his house, not far away and died in five minutes. Mr. Givens had not complained until about 30 minutes before breath left his body and his family and friends are at a loss to know what his trouble was. Mr. Givens was a splendid old gentleman, a christian and an excellent neighbor. His wife preceded him to the grave about five years and since that time he and his two unmarried daughters have been the sole members of his household. He leaves besides the two daughters referred to, a son, J. P. Givens, of Texas, and Mrs. J. A. Williams, of McKinney, Mr. Givens was a member of the Presbyterian church for years and the church, as well as the county at large, loses a most estimable citizen. His remains were interred in the McKinney cemetery at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, after short service at the grave by Rev. W. W. Bruce.

The death of Miss Lizzie E., eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter W. Carter, which occurred at their home Monday night, of typhoid fever, is another of the many evidences of the uncertainty of life that have been pressed on our attention this year. A few weeks ago the picture of health, to-day the earth has closed upon her mortal remains forever and left parents, brothers, sisters and friends to shed the bitter tear of sorrow for her loss. It is sad indeed for one so young to die just when life was opening with so much promise, but her nearest loved ones are christians and can find whatever consolation there is in believing that He doeth all things well. A very large assembly of friends attended the burial and there was scarcely a dry eye as the minister, Rev. W. L. Williams, spoke the last words before consigning her body to the tomb. We sincerely sympathize with the grief-stricken family, as well as her associates in the faculty of Christian College, Hustonville, in which she held the position of music teacher. Appended is a touching tribute to the memory of the deceased by a friend, who loved her devotedly in life.

Many hearts are aching because Lizzie Carter is lying out in the cemetery, and when the thought of all the long, lonely days in which there is no sight of her pleasant face, nor sound of her cheery voice, nor touch of her sympathetic hand, thrusts itself upon us, it is well nigh past endurance. But we have a blessed memory left; a memory of as bright and pure a spirit as ever blessed a home or adorned the earth, for if any woman ever filled her niche in the world Lizzie Carter did. She was the eldest child and accepted the responsibilities of that position gracefully, thinking and working and planning always for the success of her home, being her mother's confidential, sympathizing friend, her father's best help in the things nearest his heart, the loving, tender, watchful comrade of the younger brothers and sisters, and to the guests at her home she gave a hearty welcome, untiring efforts for their entertainment and the best her home afforded.

The was a true, genuine and thoughtful friend and in every social circle where she went Lizzie Carter was the life and centre, because of her thought and care for everybody's pleasure and comfort, and because of her bright, cheery, alert spirit. Even in her sufferings she forgot nothing that was for the pleasure of those about her and her first thought was for them. She was not content to be idle, but used her talents in all ways she could, working with eager, hopefulness for success in her beloved profession of teaching music. Her active, alert spirit was in touch with all that was good, all that was for the advancement of every right cause. She was a genuine, earnest, working Christian, having accepted the teaching of Christ and the help of his disciples when very young; and she grew and strengthened in the way of right living, preaching that most effective of sermons, an upright life.

In all her illness she was so patient, so uncomplaining, always thinking for others. But she was so anxious to get well to go on with the work that was pressing on her heart and mind, to do her part of the world's work, that our hearts break with pity that it could not be so. Yet the pity is all for those that are left and not for her. It is not poor Lizzie—it is rich, happy Lizzie for she will not be idle, but she can work without hindrance from human limitations, without fear of being misunderstood or being hampered by the high wall of circumstances that is about all things mortal.

"But I believe that God is overhead; As life is to the living, so death is to the dead." Hon. Silas Adams has resigned his seat in the Legislature, satisfied that he has a cinch on a seat in Congress. His successor will be elected Nov. 8.

Unable to get a quorum, warrants of arrest were issued for 50 members of the Legislature who failed to respond to roll call. Our member is on the list.

Bishop John M. Brown, of the African M. E. Church, issued an open letter from Nashville appealing to the members of his church to either vote for Grover Cleveland or stay away from the polls. He says his race has nothing to hope for by continuing to vote the republican ticket.

THE SEXTON'S STORY.

Many Memories Recalled Beside an Open Grave.

For some time I had heard the ominous muttering of the distant thunder, but had been so absorbed with the beauties of the scenery that I had not realized the fast approaching shower till the first great drops which heralded the coming tempest pattered around me, now and then one striking me and going through my thin summer coat.

I looked up and saw that I was just passing the gate of a country cemetery, and a short distance from the gate I espied a clump of trees, under which I thought I might find temporary shelter from the dash of rain that I knew would soon be upon me.

Passing through the gate, I went up the pathway a short distance and discovered a rustic house in the center of the group of trees which I had seen from the road. I started toward the house, when a flash of lightning nearly blinded me.

When I recovered from the shock, the clouds had gathered so thickly that I peered into darkness as I approached the rustic house. As I was entering the door an apparent apparition arose before me, and I started back at the sight of an old man, all in white, with a long, snow-white beard and hollow eyes, who looked as if he might be a tenant of one of the old graves near by.

But a welcome from him, uttered in a very pleasant voice, reassured me, and I entered just as the shower burst in all its fury.

As I took a seat beside the old man, he said:

"Rather a dismal place to be caught in a thunder shower, isn't it?"

"Well, yes," I answered, "it is so. I am glad I have company. But how happened you to be here at this time, if I may ask?"

"Why, certainly you may ask such a question. I am here to prepare a place for one of my tenants. You see I have been sexton of this cemetery for forty years, and I have come to look upon all the inmates as my tenants."

I looked a little way from where we were, and the pile of fresh earth indicated the place where he had made preparation for the new tenant.

Another blinding flash of lightning made me involuntarily start, and as the peal of thunder which followed died away I said:

"Forty years' that's a long time. I suppose you could tell some interesting stories from your experience here?"

"Yes," answered the old sexton; "if I had the faculty of story-telling I could find enough to make many stories."

"Whose grave are you making ready now?" I queried.

"Mrs. Trescott's," he said, in a musing manner, and I asked:

"And who might Mrs. Trescott be?"

The old sexton sat in a study for a moment, and then replied:

"Who was Mrs. Trescott? Well, I'll have to begin at the beginning. Sixty years ago Thomas and Robert Edmunds came to this town from England. The two men were brothers and had married sisters. Thomas, the eldest, was a widower with one daughter, three years of age. Robert's wife was an invalid, and their family consisted of a son, also three years old.

"These two brothers built those two houses that you can get a glimpse of over the tops of the trees yonder. The houses stand side by side, and in the rear between the two stands a gardener's house, where lived Richard Trescott, a gardener whom the Edmunds brothers had brought with them from England. Richard Trescott's wife was a thorough lady, and they had one son, Richard, Jr., four years of age.

"The two brothers built the large woolen mill which you passed just below here, and for many years the business went on. The brothers intended that Edward and Alice should wed at an early age, and the property thus be left in the family.

"Richard Trescott had been gardener for the family for many years in England, and had succeeded his father, and so he had grown up with the brothers.

It was only natural, therefore, that little Richard should be the playmate of Edward and Alice.

"All was well for several years, but when the cousins were twelve or thirteen years of age a slight trouble commenced. Edward had a hasty temper and an overbearing disposition, and so, on account of his superior standing and the knowledge that Alice was his intended wife, a jealousy was aroused by the strong friendship between Alice and Richard, and this jealousy had frequent outbursts.

"Young Richard was a manly fellow, and stood Edward's insults in a calm and quiet manner, never resenting any of his indignities.

"Matters went on thus until Edward and Alice were sixteen, and by this time the young man had become so exasperated that he told his father of the state of affairs. Thomas was soon informed, and a stormy scene ensued.

The result was that Richard Trescott was obliged to leave the employ of the brothers and so leave the town.

"And what became of the gardener?" I asked.

"Oh! yes, yes, the gardener," he said, as if he but half understood my question. And then rousing himself, he said: "The gardener; well, you see Richard went to college and then my wife died, and I couldn't bear to be alone, and so I came back and became sexton of the town. Here I could be near the old home, and Alice always came to see me often and my life was happy, until Richard came to live in the old mansion and I could call Alice daughter, and then I had the old house again. But I could never give up the care of the cemetery."

As the old sexton ceased speaking, the sun burst out again, and bidding him good day, I sauntered forth on my ramble over the old town where I was passing my summer vacation.—David G. Davidson, in Boston Budget.

"Your cousin is wedded to charity, is she not?" "Oh! no; she has only promised to be a sister to it."

FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF STANFORD, KY.

Capital Stock $200,000
Surplus 20,000

Attention of the public is invited to the fact that this is the only National Bank in Stanford. Under the provisions of the National Bank Act depositors are secured not only by the capital stock, but by the stockholders' liability for an amount equal to the stock. The officers of the bank are all secure, having been elected by a fund of $100,000. Five sworn statements of the condition of the bank are made each year to the United States government and its assets are examined at stated times by government agents, thus securing additional and perfect safety to depositors.

This institution, originally established as the Deposit Bank of Stanford in 1853, then reorganized as the National Bank of Stanford in 1865 and again re-organized as the First National Bank of Stanford, was incorporated by a fund of $100,000. Its capital existence of 30 years. It is better supplied now with facilities for transacting business promptly and liberally than ever before in its long and honorable career. Accounts of corporations, fiduciaries, firms and individuals respectfully solicited.

THE CLIFF DWELLERS.

An Interesting Account of an Exploration of their Abodes.

(To the Editor Interior Journal.)

SAN MARCIAL, N. M., Oct. 13.—According to promise, I herewith enclose you some of the results and incidents of my exploration of the cliff dwellers' houses in the Mogollon mountains, on the headwaters of the Gila (pronounced Hela) river. Our party consisting of four, Mastin Murray, John Lacy, E. C. Jennings and myself, left this place September 12th, and taking everything that we thought would be of use to us in our undertaking, started westward with the full intention of learning something in regard to that long dead race of people, whose mysterious abodes have excited the wonder of all that have been fortunate enough to have seen them. Our route lay through the San Mateo mountains, thence across the Great San Augustine Plains, alive with antelope, which furnished us with abundant sport and most delicious steaks from those timid and graceful animals. What great sport one can have on a trip of this kind, provided he possesses the true hunter's instinct! How the blood goes bounding through his veins, as he fills his lungs with this pure and purified air, and as the great light of day slowly arises, casting its warm rays over the waving grass and feeding game, dispelling the dark shadows of night and sending the chattering coyote to his lair, who can look on such a scene unmoved? Who would not wish to share all this health-giving climate with the poor consumptive part of humanity, who cough and wear their lives away in the damp, cold regions of the East, when a year or so in this country would give them life, health and happiness? But I digress.

Four days' swift driving brings us near our destination, as near as we can go with the wagon, and after a good night's rest we pack part of our horses with provisions, blankets, etc., and mounting the rest, started to finish the balance of our journey. We had only gone a few miles when the dread word, "Indians," was passed from one to another. No one knows better than the New Mexican prospector and hunter what that word means. He knows it means murder, arson and rapine; the killing of helpless wives and innocent children and casting their bodies into the flames of the burning home, while the husband and father has either succumbed to their murderous fire or gone to a distant town for the necessities of life, only, alas! to find on his return that those most dear to him have passed to the great beyond. Two years have scarcely passed since we laid away two dear friends of the writer, victims of those pampered pets of an independent government. Still the people of the East will cry "Lo, the poor Indian," but we of the West, who know them, will not regret to see the cacti bloom on his early grave. Here I am away off my subject again.

Swiftly we dismount and fly to cover, preparing to give them battle, when a voice, speaking in very good Spanish, comes floating to us from the cliff above: "Amigos," (friends) don't shoot; we are not Apaches, but Navajos, out on a hunt. We have a pass, which we will show you, if you will allow one of us to advance unarmed. We mean you no harm." We allowed him to come down to us and found his statement true, and the blood once more began to circulate in our veins and we began to tell each other what a slaughtered we would have made had they been Apaches. Well, we left those peaceful sons of the forest and once more resumed our journey, which was barren of incident, with the exception of seeing a small black bear that soon went down under a fusilade from our Winchesters.

That night we camped under the shadow of the great overhanging cliff, that held the mysterious objects of our visit. Next morning, just before the break of day, while the wind went shivering up and down the stream, in seeming impatience for the sun to rise and warm it up, we were awakened by a scream that split the air like a knife and sent every man for his gun, but it proved to be only a mountain lion giving vent to his angry feelings that the night had passed without furnishing him with a meal, but he served us a good turn by getting every one out and hustling for breakfast, which was soon served hot and appetizing, just as the sun peeped over the eastern hills.

HON. HENRY WATTERSON,

Now to effect an entrance to those little houses far up above our heads. No use to try to get to them from below, so after a great deal of trouble and patience we got our traps to the top of the cliff by taking a circuitous route a half mile up the stream, but it's finished at last, and with hammer and drill I am swinging over, tied in an improvised chair, so as to leave my hands free to work. After being lowered I find a shelf plenty wide enough to work on, that was not visible from either top or bottom, and how those people ever reached their houses is a mystery not to be solved by me. It may be that it has been so long since those people lived there that the action of water has worn away the canons and made them deeper, but how this could be in almost solid rock is more than I can say.

The houses were neatly sealed up with rock and plaster, as hard almost as iron, but selecting the easiest one to get at and being an old miner, I soon had a hole drilled large and deep enough to put in a stick of giant powder, tamping it in with fuse attached. I put a small piece of candle under the fuse, so it would not go off before I get out of the way, and gave the signal to pull me up.

Our time was limited, so were obliged to tear ourselves away from this interesting locality, and wrapping up our sunlight resting on their ghastly frames, were three small skeletons, or mummified bodies, resting in such positions as to leave no doubt in the mind of the onlooker that they had been alive when left in that awful tomb.

One dried and horrible thing leaned against the wall, the skin drawn back from its teeth in an awful grim. Another lay on its back; the action of time had contracted the muscles of the right arm until it was raised, as though in the act of pronouncing some awful prophecy. The last lay face down, with the left arm over the eyes, the right clutching a stone pestle, that had evidently been used to crush corn for meal. Corn cobs strewed the floor in profusion, showing these people must have known something of agriculture, in fact cobs were plentiful.

In all the houses that I have investigated stone implements of different kinds were found. Arrow heads, but very small, could be found also. Owing to the great age of these mummies and their brittle condition, I could only get one of them to the top intact, but think I will be able to have them patched up in almost as good order as when I found them. The largest of three is three feet four inches in height and was undoubtedly full grown. You can allow a great deal for shrinkage and they would, I believe, still be the smallest race yet discovered.

We opened several other houses, but found nothing of interest, except broken pottery, some of it highly decorated and some day will be eagerly picked up by relic hunters, should they ever succeed in getting into those houses. The floors of the houses were of concrete and sounded hollow to the tread. I have no doubt most interesting relics could be unearthed if one would dig for them, otherwise I do not think the houses would have been sealed. It may be the place where they buried their dead, for all my searches I have never seen any indications of an interment.

After the explosion and the smoke had cleared away they let me down and there through the broken wall, with the sunlight resting on their ghastly frames, were three small skeletons, or mummified bodies, resting in such positions as to leave no doubt in the mind of the onlooker that they had been alive when left in that awful tomb.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria. When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria. When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria. When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

BOOKCASE DRAPERY.

How to Make One That Will Please Those Who Use It.

A bookcase drapery of almost any goods is more eloquent and beautiful if it bears a motto artistically embroidered; or the letters might be painted in dyes and outlined in gold thread. A suitable curtain would be of silk mail cloth, velours, but some soft drapery goods would be prettier; such goods as Yokohama silk or some soft, self-colored twilled silk. Embroider or paint the motto first and then line the curtain and suspend it by rings from a pole at the top shelf. Let the words be placed irregularly on the drapery in careless "sketchy" letters. Mottoes will doubtless suggest themselves to you. Here are two or three:

"Of making many books there is no end."
"Books are faithful friends."
"Give me the room whose every book is dedicated to a book."

Unless the bookcase is quite wide a single curtain will look better than two. Crinkled tissue paper may now be bought by the yard and is devoted to a great variety of uses. I have heard of its serving for window drapery in a room not much used. It is very durable and will bear vigorous dusting, so I see no reason why it should not serve such a purpose if it suits one's taste. It certainly makes lovely lamp shades, and here is one way of making them: Buy a wire frame at any notion store and for a bracket lamp of medium size you will need sixteen sheets of tissue paper, eight of white and eight of rose color. Take each sheet singly in the hand and fold loosely until only about an inch wide; then stroke downward until well creased, then open and refold and stroke again, and repeat the process until it is

IN Mr. Danks' absence I will wait on those wishing to get watches or clocks out of his store. J. S. Wells, in rear of post-office.

THOSE having goods stored in our cellar will please remove them as we are going to level the floor and repair it generally. Farris & Hardin.

BORN, to the wife of John M. Hill, on Tuesday night, a fine boy. This is Mr. Hill's first and it would be hard to tell how proud he is of the youngster.

SPEAKING.—Judge J. W. Hughes and Hon. T. C. Bell will speak at Crab Orchard, Oct. 28, at 1 p.m., and at Maywood the same day at 6:30 p.m. The next day, Oct. 29th, they will address the people of the West End at Hustonville, beginning at 1 p.m. The same night they will speak at Junction City.

JIM EMBRY, the negro who was sent from here for life for killing his wife, writes to his lawyer, Mr. R. C. Warren, to remind him of his promise to get him out if he behaved well. He says he has done so and Mr. Warren's part of the contract should now be filled. Jim is at Eddyville now and will likely remain. Besides killing his wife, it is almost certain that he killed Anderson Carr's father, though it could not be proved on him, and he had already served a term for bigamy. He has been gone about 10 years and says he longs to see his old home again, but we haven't heard of anybody sighing to have him return.

COUNTY CLAIMS.—G. B. Cooper, clerk, has filed for publication, the list of claims allowed at the late term of court. The amount is $8,603.52, against $10,668.54 last year, a decrease of $1,465.02. This is doing well and we are promised even better things next year.

THE new money order offices in this section are Corbin, Rowland, Science Hill, Jamestown, Bryantsville, Burnside, Lilly, McKinney, Marydel, Mt. Vernon and Silver Creek. This will be of great convenience to the people, especially in sending money to the INTERIOR JOURNAL. If you owe us, go and invest at once in a money order to the amount.

THE entertainment to be given at Walton's Opera House, to-night, by the V. A. M. Society of Stanford Female College, assisted by Miss Olivia W. Summers' class in elocution, promises to be one of unusual interest. The young ladies have been practicing nearly a month and as practice makes perfect we may expect to see a good performance. General admission 25 cents; children under 12, 15 cents; reserved seats 40 cents for one or 70 cents for two. Reserved seats can be had of W. B. McRoberts at the post-office.

CAPT. HARRY CHAMBERS, though badly hurt by being knocked from his train near Williamsburg by a thug, because he would not stop at a station not down on the schedule, is not fatally so, as was at first thought. Dr. Peyton says his skull is not cracked and that he will soon be all right. As his train was going at 50 miles an hour when the dastardly deed was done, it is almost a miracle that he escaped death. He has been taken to his home in Louisville. Two men have been arrested for the crime, but Capt. Chambers was not able to say either was the one wanted.

A SOMNAMBULIST.—Lulled to sleep by the slow and solemn motion of Capt. W. H. Kirby's train on the K. C., a little boy gave an exhibition of his hereditary somnambulistic tendencies by walking off the car some distance before reaching Lancaster Tuesday afternoon. His mother, who had also succumbed to the drowsy god, did not miss the boy till she got to Lancaster and then the captain ordered the engineer to go back and hunt for him. A woman had found him and was bringing him to the train. His scalp was quite severely cut by falling on the rocks, but otherwise he was uninjured. He is a son of Mrs. Richay, of Sullivan, Ill., who was coming to visit friends at Rowland. She says an uncle of the boy was noted for his somnambulistic feats and others of the family are similarly affected.

LET every democrat who can get to town come out and hear Gov. McCrory speak to-morrow. He will begin at 1 p.m. sharp.

HALF fare rates can be obtained today to attend the Columbus celebration at Louisville. Tickets good to return to-morrow.

LIE GREEN and Charlie Zimmer were thrown from a horse they were riding Tuesday afternoon and each now has an ugly gash in his head.

If the parties that have our roofing tools and fence stretchers borrowed will kindly return them we will appreciate the favor. Sime & Menefee.

QUAIL will catch it from now on. Many of our sports took advantage of the opportunity and celebrated the expiration of the bird law by going hunting yesterday.

A VERY satisfactory test of the electric lights in the Christian church was made yesterday. There are 38 of them and they were used for the first time at the lecture last night.

IF you want to go to Chicago come and buy your outfit from us this week. Low prices for ladies' Exposition cloaks, gentlemen's Exposition suits and ladies' Exposition dresses. J. S. Hughes.

ANOTHER Middlesboro bank has "busted." This time it is the People's and it has been placed in the hands of a receiver. Liabilities are said to be $28,000 and assets, consisting largely of doubtful or worthless paper, $78,000.

THE clouds interfered with a good view of the sun in eclipse yesterday, but occasional glimpses showed that the exhibition came off promptly on time. It got quite dark a little after noon and lamps had to be lighted in some of the business houses.

SINE & MENEFEE have begun the erection of the engine-house. It will be located just across the creek at the foot of Lancaster street and be 16x40 feet, with a room above for the use of the city council. It will cost $400. A bridge across the St. Asaph, 12 feet wide, will also be built.

SCALD.—The little daughter of Henry Drye, who lives at McKinney, was probably fatally scald a day or two ago. Her mother was passing with a kettle of hot water when the child threw her hands up, striking the vessel and the contents were emptied in her lap almost cooking her limbs from the waist down.

SPEAKING.—Judge J. W. Hughes and Hon. T. C. Bell will speak at Crab Orchard, Oct. 28, at 1 p.m., and at Maywood the same day at 6:30 p.m. The next day, Oct. 29th, they will address the people of the West End at Hustonville, beginning at 1 p.m. The same night they will speak at Junction City.

THE recent purchasers of the Portman property, north of Main street and fronting on the Lancaster pike, are fencing off their respective lots and within the next ten days the new street through the property, to be named Portman Avenue, will be opened. This street extends from its beginning point on Lancaster pike westward towards the Danville pike about 1,000 feet, to the land of Miss Mary Varnon. The intervening distance between its terminus and the Danville pike is about 1,200 feet. We are informed that Miss Mary Varnon and R. C. Warren will tender to the city council a right-of-way through their lands for about 900 feet of this distance, provided the council will open the street to the Danville pike. The remaining distance of about 300 feet is over the land of Miss Mary Varnon and the heirs of Mrs. Helm. Miss Varnon likewise offers the right-of-way for about one-fourth of this, leaving only that portion which is over the land of the Helm heirs to be acquired.

The street is 60 feet wide and if opened from one pike to the other, will be a very beneficial and useful one to the city in many respects. It will open up a considerable territory for urban residences. It will give a far better route of travel northward from the centre of town towards Danville than the present route and avoid the dangerous crossing of the Danville pike over the railroad at the west end of town. It will bring about 50 families nearly a half mile, some of them more, to the common school building. We also understand that Mrs. Catherine Bailey likewise tendered a right-of-way over her land for an extension of the proposed new street eastward to Logan Avenue. Seldom in the history of Stanford has such an opportunity been offered for an extension of streets, the benefit of which every one recognizes. The cost of acquiring the right-of-way will be but a trifle compared with the great advantages which will result from the opening of the street, and we appeal to our city fathers not to lose the opportunity. Those who know say that the topography is such that no immediate McAdamizing and but little grading will be required for some time to come; not until the town is able to bear the cost.

THE CHILDREN WE KEEP.

The children kept coming, one by one,
Till the boys were five and the girls were three,
And the big brown house were alive with fun,
From the basement floor to the old roof tree.
Like garden flowers the little ones grew,
Nurtured and trained with the tenderest care;
Warmed by love's sunshine, bathed in its dew
They bloomed into beauty, like roses rare.

But one of the boys grew weary one day,
And, leaning his head on his mother's breast,
He said, "I am tired and can not play;
Let me sit awhile on your knee and rest."
She cradled him close in her fond embrace,
She hushed him to sleep with her sweet song,
And rapturous love still lighted his face
When his spirit had joined the heavenly throng.

Then the oldest girl, with her thoughtful eyes,
Who stood where 'the brook and the river met,'

Stole softly away into Paradise
 Ere "the river" had reached her slender feet,
While the father's eyes on the grave are bent;
The mother looked upward beyond the skies;
"Our treasures," she whispered, "were only lent,
Our darlings were angels in earth's disguise."

The years flew by and the children began
With longing to think of the world outside;
And as each, in his turn, became a man,
The boy proudly went from the father's side.
The girls were women so gentle and fair
That lovers were speedy to woo and win;
And with orange blossoms in braided hair,
The old home was left, new home to begin.

So, one by one, the children have gone—
The boys were five and the girls were three;
And the big brown house is gloomy and lone,
With but two old folks for its company.

They talk to each other about the past,
As they sit together in ev'rytime,
And say, "All the children we kept at last,
Are the boy and girl who in childhood died."

WILLIAMSBURG, WHITLEY COUNTY.

Court of claims is in session this week.

Rev. W. B. Estis filled the pulpit at the Baptist church last Sunday.

C. W. Lester was at Jacksboro, Tennessee, last week, attending circuit court.

E. J. Smith was down from Jellico last Sunday to see one of our finest young ladies.

Dr. W. F. Watkins is building an office on the lot next to J. L. Whitehead's drug store.

Rev. Green Clay Smith, of Washington, D. C., and Col. John K. Faulkner and James T. Shuckford, of Richmond, are out on fishing excursion.

Our officers are keeping a close lookout for the man that knocked Captain Chambers from his train, last Monday morning. Every endeavor will be used to capture him.

Mrs. J. C. Johnson died Sunday morning after a long illness. She was a member of the Christian church and leaves three small children besides her husband to mourn her loss.

Attorney Gen. W. J. Hendrick was prevented from speaking here last Saturday on account of official business. The time was taken up by G. A. Denham and Chas. Finley, who discussed the political issues of the day.

Paris Sharp shot and killed Dulley Webb at East Tennessee mines last Saturday night. There was a woman the cause of the trouble. Both were colored. Sharp was arrested and his examining trial set for Wednesday.

The republicans are speaking at various places in this county now and refuse to divide time with the local democrats after they offered to bear their part of all expenses. "The wicked flee when no man pursueth." They are afraid to have their arguments met in a county with 1,700 majority.

The Kentucky Lumber Co.'s planing mill burned last Friday at noon. The men were away at dinner and before they could get to it the fire was under such headway it could not be stopped.

There were several thousand feet of dressed lumber under the shed and one railroad car partly loaded on the switch that also burned. The planes were partly insured, but the actual loss will be somewhere from $5,000 to $10,000.

J. Mat Smith and Miss Ella Woods eloped to Jellico last Tuesday morning and were married. The young lady's mother met them at the nine o'clock train and was about to use a 45 on her newly made son-in-law, but was prevented by Deputy Sheriff W. L. Moore and Marshal Ross, who happened to be at the train. The young couple passed on to seek a more congenial clime. It is reported that the mother, who is a widow, thought the young man was paying his attention to her instead of her daughter and that was the cause of her opposition.

Thompson & McCarley bought of A. J. Hayden a lot of butcher stuff at 2c; of John Holmes a bunch of 1,450-pound cattle at 4c and of John Stevenson a lot weighing 1,600 at 4c.

Strayed or stolen, a little brown mare from the hitching post at Smith Embry's shop. Any information of her will be thankfully received. J. P. Bush, Stanford.

Thos. E. Wood bought of Greenberry Bright 35 head of 1,300 feeders at 3:45; of W. D. Snow a lot of 75-pound steers at 4 cents and of E. A. White a lot of yearling steers at $18.

A. Hunn bought in Pulaski county 60 calves at an average of $3.50 per head. He also bought a lot of sheep at 2c. Mr. Hunn has handled over 500 within the last four months.
